Introduction To Kill a Mockingbird is about a girl, Scout, and her brother, Jem, who are growing up in a small town called Maycomb in America. The events in the novel take place from May 1933 to October 1935. The story is told from Scout's point of view. One of the main events in the story is the trial of Tom Robinson, a black man who is falsely accused of raping a young white woman, Scout's father, Atticus. In the chapter who defends Tom in court, however, despite the evidence given in court of his innocence, the court decides that Tom is guilty. In the book the author explores social issues, such as racism through Scout's experiences with her family and neighbors. One of the most interesting characters in a sensitive man called Boo, who reveals a mysterious character for most of the book.
The Author Harper Lee was born in 1926 and grew up in Alabama - the same American state in which To Kill a Mockingbird is set. While she was a university student in the late 1940s she began to write short stories about racial injustice. She went to kill a Mockingbird in the late 1950s at a time when the Civil Rights Movement in America was campaigning for an end to racial segregation in Alabama and other southern states. Harper Lee has received many awards and honors for the book, including the Presidential Award for Freedom. This is the only novel she has published.
Organize the Information Read or listen. What year does the story start? What year was the story written? What was happening in America at the time?
